Youths enjoy camping

Althea Boling

Four-H'ers from Charlottesville escaped the hectic city life and met campers from Albermarle and Fluvanna counties at Holiday Lake 4-H Educational Center. Over 200 campers spent August 1-5, 1983, meeting new friends and learning new skills.

Each week the most outstanding camper is selected by the Extension Agents and permanent camp staff as "Camper of the Week". This individual is helpful, cooperative, and displays enthusiasm to the campers and adults. A 4-H'er from Charlottesville was selected to receive a one-half scholarship to attend camp next summer. Bradley Richmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Richmond received the award.

A lot of hard work, limited hours of sleep, and dedication describes the job of a Junior Leader. These senior 4-H'ers work very hard to make the camp enjoyable for the campers. They are also role models for the younger campers. Selected with Althea Boling as "Junior Leader of the Week". She did an outstanding job working with the campers and the staff.

Longwood programs accredited

The National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) has granted accreditation or reaccreditation to all of Longwood College's education programs. The action is effective until September 1, 1990.

Included in the NCATE action are initial accreditation for Longwood's undergraduate program in early childhood education and reaccreditation for the undergraduate and graduate programs in elementary education, the undergraduate programs in secondary education and kindergarten-through-grade-12, and the graduate programs in reading, school principalship, supervision and curriculum specialist, and counselor education.

The NCATE report cited several "special strengths" in Longwood's education programs. Involvement of the special education faculty in developing resources and materials for all basic teacher education programs was especially commended.

In addition, the report stated: "Close and competent practicum supervision, permitting the early identifications of and response to individual problems, was found to constitute an especially strong student teaching program. Excellent relationships exist between cooperating teachers and college supervisors."

The institution's "long-range commitment to teacher education" also was praised.

NCATE is the only national accrediting agency for programs preparing teachers and other professional school personnel. The Council's accreditation review is based on a comprehensive set of national standards covering governance, curriculum, faculty, students, and other resources for each education program.

Accreditation by NCATE enables Longwood's education graduates to automatically qualify for teaching careers in more than 30 states.

The two-year accreditation review process involves a year of institutional self study resulting in an in-depth report to NCATE, an on-site visit by a national team appointed by NCATE, and a review of the team's report by the Council itself.

The 12-member team which conducted the on-site review at Longwood was chaired by Dr. Tom Jenson, head of the School of Education and Physical Education at Dickinson State College in North Dakota. Educators from nine other states served on the team.

AMS tours slated

The Appomattox Middle School counselor, Mrs. Bolling Carter, with the cooperation of the Middle School SCA will offer guided tours of the school building to all incoming seventh grade students on Thursday, Aug. 25 and Friday, Aug. 26 from 8:30 a.m. until 5:00 p.m.

Both 7th and 8th grade students will be able to pick up their class schedules and homebase assignments in the school cafeteria on these two days.

The counselor urges all students to come to the Middle School on one of these days in order to get their schedules and to see where their classes are held.

Students who are unable to get their schedules on these two days should report to the cafeteria upon arrival at school on Monday, August 29. Mrs. Carter will give these students homebase room numbers at that time.
